    D) synecdoche.
    E) zeugma.

Items 41-45 refer to Robert Browning's

Soliloquy of the Spanish Cloister

Gr-r-r—there go, my heart's abhorrence!
Water your damned flower-pots, do!
If hate killed men, Brother Lawrence,
God's blood, would not mine kill you!
What? your myrtle-bush wants trimming?
Oh, that rose has prior claims—
Needs its leaden vase filled brimming?
Hell dry you up with its flames!

At the meal we sit together;
Salve tibi! I must hear
Wise talk of the kind of weather,
Sort of season, time of year:
Not a plenteous cork crop: scarcely
Dare we hope oak-galls, I doubt;
What's the Latin name for "parsley"?
What's the Greek name for Swine's Snout?

Whew! We'll have our platter burnished,
Laid with care on our own shelf!
With a fire-new spoon we're furnished,
And a goblet for ourself,
Rinsed like something sacrificial
Ere 'tis fit to touch our chaps—
Marked with L. for our initial!
(He-he! There his lily snaps!)

Saint, forsooth! While Brown Dolores
Squats outside the Convent bank
With Sanchicha, telling stories,
Steeping tresses in the tank,
Blue-black, lustrous, thick like horsehairs,
—Can't I see his dead eye glow,
Bright as 'twere a Barbary corsair's?
(That is, if he'd let it show!)

When he finishes refection,
Knife and fork he never lays
Cross-wise, to my recollection,
As do I, in Jesu's praise.
I the Trinity illustrate,
Drinking watered orange pulp—
In three sips the Arian frustrate;
While he drains his at one gulp!

Oh, those melons! if he's able
We're to have a feast; so nice!
One goes to the Abbot's table,
All of us get each a slice.
How go on your flowers? None double?
Not one fruit-sort can you spy?
Strange!--And I, too, at such trouble,
Keep them close-nipped on the sly!

There's a great text in Galatians,
Once you trip on it, entails
Twenty-nine distinct damnations,
One sure, if another fails;
If I trip him just a-dying,
Sure of heaven as sure can be,
Spin him round and send him flying
Off to hell, a Manichee?

Or, my scrofulous French novel
On grey paper with blunt type!
Simply glance at it, you grovel
Hand and foot in Belial's gripe;
If I double down its pages
At the woeful sixteenth print,
When he gathers his greengages,
Ope a sieve and slip it in't?

Or, there's Satan!--one might venture
Pledge one's soul to him, yet leave
Such a flaw in the indenture
As he'd miss till, past retrieve,
Blasted lay that rose-acacia
We're so proud of! Hy, Zy, Hine . . .
'St, there's Vespers! Plena gratia
Ave, Virgo! Gr-r-r--you swine!

41. The shifting tone of Robert Browning's "Soliloquy of the Spanish Cloister" is dominated by the persona's

D) required drama.
E) unwitting self-revealing of character.

Items 46-50 refer to Robert Browning's

The Lost Leader

Just for a handful of silver he left us,
Just for a riband to stick in his coat—
Found the one gift of which fortune bereft us,
Lost all the others she lets us devote;
They, with the gold to give, doled him out silver,
So much was theirs who so little allowed:
How all our copper had gone for his service!
Rags—were they purple, his heart had been proud!
We that had loved him so, followed him, honoured him,
Lived in his mild and magnificent eye,
Learned his great language, caught his clear accents,
Made him our pattern to live and to die!
Shakespeare was of us, Milton was for us,
Burns, Shelley, were with us,—they watch from their graves!
He alone breaks from the van and the freemen,
—He alone sinks to the rear and the slaves!

We shall march prospering,—not thro' his presence;
Songs may inspirit us,—not from his lyre;
Deeds will be done,—while he boasts his quiescence,
Still bidding crouch whom the rest bade aspire:
Blot out his name, then, record one lost soul more,
One task more declined, one more footpath untrod,
One more devils'-triumph and sorrow for angels,
One wrong more to man, one more insult to God!
Life's night begins: let him never come back to us!
There would be doubt, hesitation and pain,
Forced praise on our part—the glimmer of twilight,
Never glad confident morning again!
Best fight on well, for we taught him—strike gallantly,
Menace our heart ere we master his own;
Then let him receive the new knowledge and wait us,
Pardoned in heaven, the first by the throne!

46. The first line of Browning's "The Lost Leader" features

A) allusion.
B) flyting.
C) hyperbole.

Part 3: Ability in Literary Criticism

15 items (2 points each)

Items 51-55 refer to Dana Gioia's

Words

The world does not need words. It articulates itself in sunlight, leaves, and shadows. The stones on the path are no less real for lying uncatalogued and uncounted.
The fluent leaves speak only the dialect of pure being.
The kiss is still fully itself though no words were spoken.

And one word transforms it into something less or other—illicit, chaste, perfunctory, conjugal, covert.
Even calling it a kiss betrays the fluster of hands glancing the skin or gripping a shoulder, the slow arching of neck or knee, the silent touching of tongues.

Yet the stones remain less real to those who cannot name them, or read the mute syllables graven in silica.
To see a red stone is less than seeing it as jasper—metamorphic quartz, cousin to the flint the Kiowa carved as arrowheads. To name is to know and remember.

The sunlight needs no praise piercing the rainclouds, painting the rocks and leaves with light, then dissolving each lucent droplet back into the clouds that engendered it.
The daylight needs no praise, and so we praise it always—greater than ourselves and all the airy words we summon.

51. The argument that Gioia puts forward in the second stanza of "Words" addresses the failing of a word's

A) abridgement.
B) ambiguity.
C) analogue.
D) connotation.
E) denotation.

52. The theme-supporting line 19 relies on a(n)

A) conceit.
B) oxymoron.
C) paradox.
D) tautology.
E) volta.

53. The contrast that dominates the poem is between

A) the concrete and abstract.
B) the flesh and the stones.
C) the knowing and the remembering.
D) the metamorphic quartz and the flint arrowhead.
E) the sunlight and the rainclouds.

54. The central idea of Gioia's "Words" is the

A) cataloguing of nature.
B) defining of language.
C) limits of naming.
D) reinforcement of responsible stewardship.
E) positive power of words.

55. The poem's effectiveness finds opportunity in

A) auditory imagery.
B) gustatory imagery.
C) olfactory imagery.
D) tactile imagery.
E) visual imagery.

Items 56-60 refer to Robert Frost's

Unharvested

A scent of ripeness from over a wall.
And come to leave the routine road
And look for what had made me stall,
There sure enough was an apple tree
That had eased itself of its summer load,
And of all but its trivial foliage free,
Now breathed as light as a lady's fan.
For there had been an apple fall
As complete as the apple had given man.
The ground was one circle of solid red.

May something go always unharvested!
May much stay out of our stated plan,
Apples or something forgotten and left,
So smelling their sweetness would be no theft.

56. The form of Robert Frost's "Unharvested" is the

A) fourteener.
B) pantoum.
C) rondeau.
D) sonnet.
E) terza rima.

57. The poem's rhyme scheme is

D) find meaning in the randomness of nature.
E) gather ye apples while ye may.

60. The final line of Frost's poem rests solidly on a

A) biblical allusion.
B) classical allusion.
C) contemporary allusion.
D) historical allusion.
E) topical allusion.

Item 61 refers to Alan Truscot's

[Self-Observation]

I am the only dummy player, perhaps, planning maneuvers calculated brilliantly, nevertheless outstandingly pachydermatous, notwithstanding unconstitutional unprofessionalism.

61. Truscot's sentence models the

A) didactic.
B) elegiac.
C) macabre.
D) pyramidal.
E) rhopalic.

Items 62-65 refer to Robert Browning's

The Names

Shakespeare! —to such name's sounding, what succeeds
Fitly as silence? Falter forth the spell,—
Act follows word , the speaker knows full well,
Nor tampers with its magic more than needs.
Two names there are: That which the Hebrew reads
With his soul only; if from lips it fell,
Echo, back thundered by earth, heaven and hell,
Would own "Thou didst create us!" Naught impedes
We voice the other name, man's most of might,
Awesomely, lovingly: let awe and love
Mutely await their working, leave to sight
All of the issue as—below—above—
Shakespeare's creation rises: one remove,
Though dread—this finite from that infinite.

62. The basic metrical pattern of Browning's poem is

A) dactylic pentameter.
B) dactylic tetrameter.
C) iambic pentameter.
D) iambic tetrameter.
E) trochaic pentameter.

63. The form of Browning's poem approximates the

A) Anglo-Italian sonnet.
B) caudate sonnet.
C) English sonnet.
D) Italian sonnet.
E) Miltonic sonnet.

64. The sestet depends on

A) compound rhyme.
B) eye rhyme.
C) feminine rhyme.
D) half rhyme.
E) leonine rhyme.

65. The theme addresses a contrast between God's and

A) humankind's ability to love.
B) humankind's creativity.
C) humankind's knowing when to act.
D) humankind's need to name.
E) humankind's willingness to write poetry.

Required tie-breaking essay prompt on next page.

Part 4: Tie-Breaking Essay (required)

Note well: Contestants who do not write an essay will be disqualified even if they are not involved in any tie.

Note well: Any essay that does not demonstrate a sincere effort to discuss the assigned topic will be disqualified. The judge(s) should note carefully this criterion when breaking ties: ranking of essays for tie-breaking purposes should be based primarily on how well the topic has been addressed.

Three sheets of paper have been provided for this essay; your written response should reflect the Handbook's notion that an essay is a "moderately brief discussion of a restricted topic": something more than just a few sentences.

Read Jeffrey Harrison's "Renewal," and discuss the effectiveness of the controlling image.

Renewal

At the Department of Motor Vehicles to renew my driver's license, I had to wait two hours on one of those wooden benches like pews in the church of Latter Day Meaninglessness, where there is no stained glass (no windows at all, in fact), no incense other than stale cigarette smoke emanating from the clothes of those around me, and no sermon, just an automated female voice calling numbers over a loudspeaker.
And one by one the members of our sorry congregation shuffled meekly up to the pitted altar to have our vision tested or to seek redemption for whatever wrong turn we'd taken, or pay indulgences, or else be turned away
as unworthy of piloting our own journey.
But when I paused to look around, using my numbered ticket as a bookmark, it was as if the dim fluorescent light had been transformed to incandescence. The face of the Latino guy in a ripped black sweatshirt glowed with health, and I could tell that the sulking white girl accompanied by her mother was brimming with secret excitement to be getting her first license, already speeding down the highway, alone,
with all the windows open, singing.

Part 4: Tie-Breaking Essay

These notes are not intended to be understood as a key for the Tie-Breaking Essay prompt; rather, they should serve the judge(s) as a presentation of critical ideas that might appear in an essay responding to the prompt.

Criteria for judging the Tie-Breaking Essay SHOULD include the degree to which the instructions have been followed, the quality of the critical insight offered in response to the selection, the overall effectiveness of the written discussion, and the grammatical correctness of the essay.

Note well that the quality of the contestant's critical insight is more important than the contestant's prose style. In short, the Literary Criticism contest is one that promotes the critical analysis of literature. The quality of the writing, which should never go unappreciated, does not trump evidence of critical analysis.

Critical Notes on Jeffrey Harrison's "Renewal"

Literary concepts that MIGHT be used in a discussion of controlling image in Harrison's "Renewal" include allusion,

conceit,
contrast,
controlling image,
diction,
imagery (auditory, olfactory, tactile, visual),
irony,
metaphor,
metonymy,
onomatopoeia,
pun,
tenor,
tone, and vehicle.

The controlling image, as the contestant should readily recognize, is the metaphor (arguably the conceit) that has the Department of Motor Vehicles being compared to a church. The metaphor runs through Harrison's poem, starting with the title, which, in the context of the church, speaks to redemption and salvation: license renewal is equated to the freedom offered by being converted into a licensed driver able to "speed[ ] down the highway, alone, / with all the windows open, singing.

The contestant might make something of the singing (line 26), which is a celebratory exercise that contrasts with "wait[ing] two hours on one of those wooden benches / like pews" (lines 2-4). He or she might understand that the lack of windows in the DMV serves as a contrast to a church's stained glass and to the imagined car's open windows. The contrast that characterizes the relationship between the tenor (the DMV) and the vehicle (a church) is found throughout the poem; e.g., the stale cigarette smoke is compared to incense, the automated voice is compared to a sermon, the traffic fines are indulgences that offset "wrong turns"; "piloting our own journey" is at once the driving of a car and the living of a life, once we are licensed or redeemed.

The fullness of the controlling image's vehicle is found in the threading of church imagery, which begins with the allusory "Latter Day Meaninglessness," through pews, stained glass, incense, sermon, congregation, altar, redemption, indulgences, piloting of a journey, and transformed, ending with singing.
