Items 43-47 refer to Rudyard Kipling's

Arithmetic on the Frontier

A great and glorious thing it is
To learn, for seven years or so,
The Lord knows what of that and this,
Ere reckoned fit to face the foe—
The flying bullet down the Pass,
That whistles clear: 'All flesh is grass.'

Three hundred pounds per annum spent
On making brain and body meeter
For all the murderous intent
Comprised in 'villainous saltpetre!'
And after?—Ask the Yusufzaies
What comes of all our 'ologies.

A scrimmage in a Border Station—
A canter down some dark defile—
Two thousand pounds of education
Drops to a ten-rupee jezail—
The Crammer's boast, the Squadron's pride,
Shot like a rabbit in a ride!

No proposition Euclid wrote,
No formulae the text-books know,
Will turn the bullet from your coat,
Or ward the tulwar's downward blow.
Strike hard who cares—shoot straight who can—
The odds are on the cheaper man.

One sword-knot stolen from the camp
Will pay for all the school expenses
Of any Kurrum Valley scamp
Who knows no word of moods and tenses,
But, being blessed with perfect sight,
Picks off our messmates left and right.

With home-bred hordes the hillsides teem,
The troopships bring us one by one,
At vast expense of time and steam,
To slay Afridis where they run.
The 'captives of our bow and spear'
Are cheap, alas! as we are dear.

Items 48-50 refer to Rudyard Kipling's

A Charm

Take of English earth as much
As either hand may rightly clutch.
In the taking of it breathe
Prayer for all who lie beneath.
Not the great nor well-bespoke,
But the mere uncounted folk
Of whose life and death is none
Report or lamentation.
Lay that earth upon thy heart,
And thy sickness shall depart!

It shall sweeten and make whole
Fevered breath and festered soul.
It shall mightily restrain
Over-busied hand and brain.
It shall ease thy mortal strife
'Gainst the immortal woe of life,
Till thyself, restored, shall prove
By what grace the Heavens do move.

Take of English flowers these—
Spring's full-facèd primroses,
Summer's wild wide-hearted rose,
Autumn's wall-flower of the close,
And, thy darkness to illume,
Winter's bee-thronged ivy-bloom.
Seek and serve them where they bide
From Candlemas to Christmas-tide,
For these simples, used aright,
Shall restore a failing sight.

These shall cleanse and purify
Webbed and inward-turning eye;
These shall show thee treasure hid
Thy familiar fields amid;
At thy threshold, on thy hearth
Or about thy daily path;
And reveal (which is thy need)
Every man a King indeed!

48. In Rudyard Kipling's "A Charm" the suggestion the persona makes is that both England's soil and flora can serve year 'round in a manner that is

Part 3: Ability in Literary Criticism
15 items (2 points each)

Items 51-54 refer to Henry David Thoreau's

Smoke

Light-winged Smoke, Icarian bird,
Melting thy pinions in thy upward flight,
Lark without song, and messenger of dawn,
Circling above the hamlets as thy nest;
Or else, departing dream, and shadowy form
Of midnight vision, gathering up thy skirts;
By night star-veiling, and by day
Darkening the light and blotting out the sun;
Go thou my incense upward from this hearth,
And ask the gods to pardon this clear flame.

51. The compound adjective in the first line of H. D. Thoreau's "Smoke," which depends more on aptness combined with familiarity rather than on freshness or variety, is a Homeric

A) epigram.
B) epitaph.

if up's the word;and a world grows greener

if up's the word;and a world grows greener minute by second and most by more—
if death is the loser and life is the winner
(and beggars are rich but misers are poor)
—let's touch the sky:
with a to and a fro
(and a here there where)and away we go in even the laziest creature among us a wisdom no knowledge can kill is astir—

now dull eyes are keen and now keen eyes are keener (for young is the year,for young is the year)
—let's touch the sky:
with a great(and a gay
and a steep)deep rush through amazing day

it's brains without hearts have set saint against sinner;
put gain over gladness and joy under care—
let's do as an earth which can never do wrong does (minute by second and most by more)
—let's touch the sky:
with a strange(and a true)
and a climbing fall into far near blue if beggars are rich(and a robin will sing his robin a song)but misers are poor—let's love until noone could quite be(and young is the year,dear)as living as i'm and as you're

—let's touch the sky:
with a you and a me
and an every(who's any who's some)one who's we

E) inclusion.

Items 59-61 refer to Robert Frost's

Neither Out Far nor In Deep

The people along the sand
All turn and look one way.
They turn their back on the land.
They look at the sea all day.

As long as it takes to pass
A ship keeps raising its hull;
The wetter ground like glass
Reflects a standing gull.

The land may vary more;
But wherever the truth may be—
The water comes ashore,
And the people look at the sea.

They cannot look out far.
They cannot look in deep.
But when was that ever a bar
To any watch they keep?

E) ironically, if not whimsically, facetious.

Items 62-65 refer to Edna St. Vincent Millay's

[What's this of death . . . ?]

What's this of death, from you who never will die?
Think you the wrist that fashioned you in clay,
The thumb that set the hollow just that way
In your full throat and lidded the long eye
So roundly from the forehead, will let lie
Broken, forgotten, under foot some day
Your unimpeachable body, and so slay
The work he most had been remembered by?

I tell you this: whatever of dust to dust
Goes down, whatever of ashes may return
To its essential self in its own season,
Loveliness such as yours will not be lost,
But, cast in bronze upon his very urn,
Make known him Master, and for what good reason.

62. The organizational form of Edna St. Vincent Millay's lyric poem is the Required tie-breaking essay prompt on the next page.

Part 4: Tie-Breaking Essay (required)

Note well: Contestants who do not write an essay will be disqualified even if they are not involved in any tie. Any essay that does not demonstrate a sincere effort to discuss the assigned topic will be disqualified. The judge(s) should note carefully this criterion when breaking ties: ranking of essays for tie-breaking purposes should be based primarily on how well the topic has been addressed.

Three sheets of paper have been provided; your written response should reflect the Handbook's notion that an essay is a "moderately brief discussion of a restricted topic": something more than just a few sentences.

Read Rudyard Kipling's "The Deep-Sea Cables," and offer a discussion of imagery's contribution, especially the auditory imagery (including melopoeia-charged imagery: onomatopoeia, alliteration, sigmatism), to the poem's thematic focus on communication.

The Deep-Sea Cables*

The wrecks* dissolve above us; their dust drops down from afar— shipwrecks
Down to the dark, to the utter dark, where the blind white sea-snakes are.
There is no sound, no echo of sound, in the deserts of the deep,
Or the great grey level plains of ooze where the shell-burred cables creep.

Here in the womb of the world—here on the tie-ribs of earth
Words, and the words of men, flicker and flutter and beat—
Warning, sorrow, and gain, salutation and mirth—
For a Power troubles the Still that has neither voice nor feet.

They have wakened the timeless Things; they have killed their father Time;
Joining hands in the gloom, a league* from the last of the sun. unit of length
Hush! Men talk to-day o'er the waste of the ultimate slime, elemental
And a new Word runs between: whispering, 'Let us be one!'

Rudyard Kipling

* Deep-sea cables of the Morse Code telegraph were the first means of almost instant global communication.

FOLD along the three longitudinal lines for ease in grading. ➔

Please note that the objective scores should not be altered to reflect the breaking of any ties. Simply adjust ranking.

The thirty items in Part 1 are worth one point each.

The twenty items in Part 2 are worth two points each.

The fifteen items in Part 3 are worth two points each.

DO NOT mark (cross out) actual LETTER answer; mark the answer NUMERAL.

Page numbers refer to the Handbook 12e, the Folger Shakespeare Twelfth Night, the Penguin The Joy Luck Club, and to Washington's Kipling collection.

Part 4: Tie-Breaking Essay

These notes are not intended to be understood as a key for the Tie-Breaking Essay prompt; rather, they should serve the judge(s) as a presentation of critical ideas that might appear in an essay responding to the prompt.

Criteria for judging the Tie-Breaking Essay SHOULD include the degree to which the instructions have been followed, the quality of the critical insight offered in response to the selection,

the overall effectiveness of the written discussion, and the grammatical correctness of the essay.

Note well that the quality of the contestant's critical insight is more important than the contestant's prose style. In short, the Literary Criticism contest is one that promotes the critical analysis of literature. The quality of the writing, which should never go unappreciated, does not trump evidence of critical analysis.

Critical Notes on Rudyard Kipling's "Deep Sea Cables"

Literary concepts that MIGHT be used in a discussion of imagery's role in emphasizing the theme of communication in Rudyard Kipling's "Deep Sea Cables" include alliteration,

diction,
imagery,
liminality,
melopoeia [words characterized by musical property(s) that induce emotional correlations through both sound and rhythm],
metaphor,
onomatopoeia,
personification,
reification,
rhyme,
rhythm,
sigmatism,
synæsthesia,
synecdoche,
theme, and tone.

The young Lit Critter's response should address the melopoeic elements that carry Kipling's theme, which is found, explicitly stated, in the poem's final line: "Let us be one!" The strongest example of the auditory imagery's carrying—literally—the communication endeavor through the advanced technology of undersea networking of the continents is found in the onomatopoeic "flicker and flutter and beat" (line 6), which the student might recognize—the footnote providing the clue—as an auditory representation of Morse Code. Additionally, the diction choices, charged with alliteration, sigmatism, and the visual imagery, e.g., sea snakes (line 2), "deserts of the deep" (line 3), "the great grey level plains of ooze" (line 4), carry a complementary auditory quality that echoes the characteristics of human speech, which might be argued as an emphasizing of that "Power troubl[ing] the Still" that is powerless to respond "neither voice" and react "nor feet" (line 8).

Something might be made of the onomatopoeic quality of the visual and tactile imagery—something toward synæsthesia—e.g., line 1's dissolve, line 4's ooze, line 10's gloom.

The clever analyst might suggest that the inconsistency of the poem's metrical pattern is a perhaps decipherable Morse Code message itself, or she might simply point out that the neither accentual nor accentual-syllabic verse complements the melopoeic qualities of the poem.
